Our Guiding Principles

Pioneering safer materials for health and wellness

We believe that it is our responsibility to monitor quality standards. For over 30 years we have placed importance on using natural materials, as well as avoiding potentially harmful substances in all of our products.

Designing from the babies perspective for whole development

We see from the baby's perspective in terms of comfort and movement. We offer age-appropriate features needed to support the different stages from newborn to three years old. Our Pathways of Whole Learning stimulate babies with seven different kinds of developmental learning experiences.

Supporting parenting naturally with ease

We provide practical comfort for babies and convenience for parents. Our products are designed to be fundamentally useful and effective with multiple, unique functions.

Minimizing our impact for future generations

We always consider maximizing the life cycle of our products and minimizing their environmental impact. As much as possible, we strive to source materials that are renewable, recycled, or recyclable for our products.

Mothers pioneering healthy & safe baby products since 1982

'More than 40 years ago, I was introduced to a holistic way of understanding the world that has profoundly influenced how I have raised my children. Back then, words like organic and locally grown were neither mainstream nor commonplace. Today, happily, parents have a myriad of choices for keeping their children healthy. I relied on these principles as I raised my two daughters and as I founded my company.'

—Becky Cannon, Founder and President of green sprouts and i play., and Author of Grow Healthy. Grow Happy. The Whole Baby Guide

Today, Becky, Emi, and Mari are the mother-daughter owners of i play. and green sprouts, and they continue to focus on creating the best baby products for families. A lot has changed in the last three decades, but one thing has never changed: the commitment to the health and happiness of babies throughout every stage of development.
